

From Pandemic to Recovery:

China's Efforts in Building Business Integrity

Mr. LIU Wei, Senior Inspector
The National Commission of Supervision
People's Republic of China

Contents

CONTENTS

- 01 Improving legal framework
- 02 Strengthening corporate compliance
- 03 Promoting international cooperation
- 04 Suggestions

Improving legal framework

- Criminal Law of China
- the Law Against Unfair Competition
- the Law on Foreign Investment in China
- the Regulations on Improving Business Environment

Strengthening corporate compliance

- All state-owned enterprises under central administration have established compliance committees
- For several consecutive years, the National Commission of Supervision of China has organized training programs on business integrity and compliance together with international organizations
- A number of Chinese enterprises have proposed the Initiative on Business Integrity and Compliance

International Cooperation

- Beijing Initiative for the Clean Silk Road
- China-Laos Railway Construction Project
- The Clean Silk Road Thematic Forum with the theme of “Strengthen International Anti-Corruption Cooperation to Jointly Build the Clean Silk Road” to be held by the NCS in the third week of this October

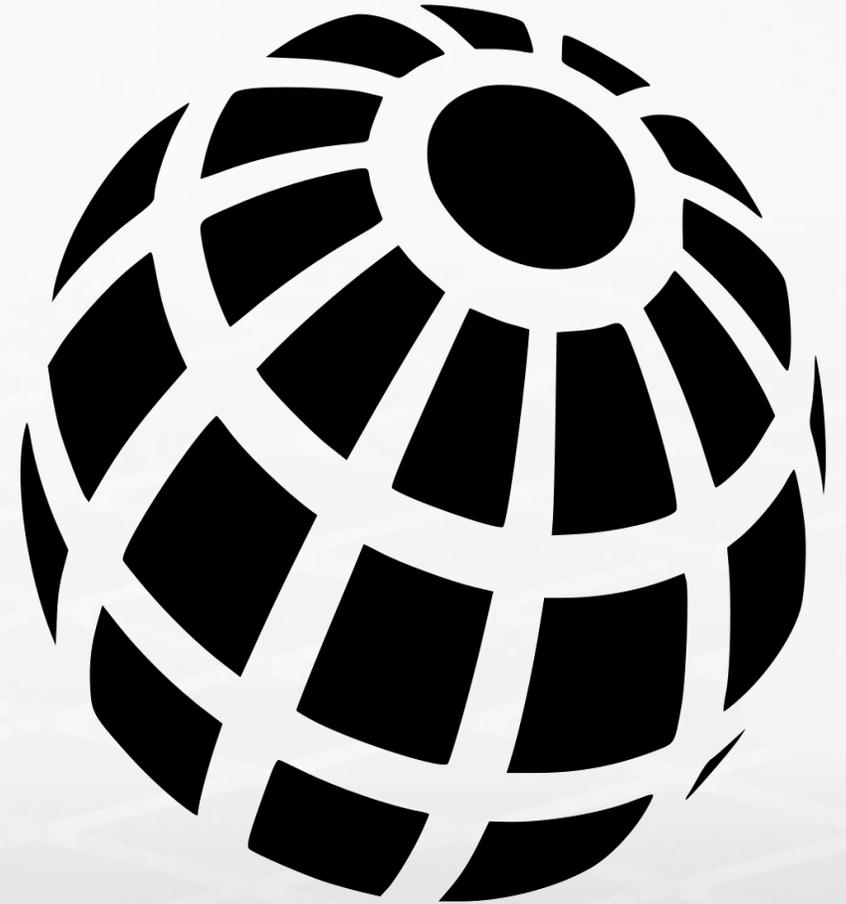

Suggestions

Honor commitments, fulfill the obligations stipulated in the UNCAC, improve domestic legislation, and take practical measures to demonstrate zero tolerance against corruption

Law-enforcement networks such as the GLOBE and the LEN of the ADB-OECD Anti-Corruption Initiative shall also be given priority

Encourage companies to reject business bribery, improve integrity and compliance systems, take integrity and compliance as their lifeline, and jointly promote clean and sustainable business

From Pandemic to Recovery:

Building Resilient Economies through Transparency, Integrity, and Trust

Thank you!

